COUNCIL HOLDS REGULAR MEET

TIME FOR PAYING TAXES EXTENDED—CONSTRUCTION COMPANY MUST GIVE BOND.

At the meeting of the city council Monday night it was voted to give Harry Gilmore the job of painting the hose house in the fourth ward. Mr. Gilmore's bid for the job was $182.60. Work on East Cross street between the bridge and the depot is to be started immediately. A telephone is to be installed in the hose house and the room used for an office for the street commissioner.

A sign, "Dump no rubbish," is to be placed on First avenue by the street commissioner. Alderman Worden said: "I don't mind a little rubbish now and then being dumped there, but when man, horse, wagon and all come tumbling down onto my ground, as happened the other day, I object."

The time for paying the city taxes has been extended to August 12. A storm sewer is to be constructed on Ballard street between Pearl and Ellis streets. A representative of the Air Alarm company asked for an understanding of the possession of the land on which the company has been operating.

City Attorney Kirk reported that the city had not acquired title to Air Alarm company. Alderman Lathers made a motion that a copy be transmitted to the receiver of the Air Alarm company and that the city take possession of the property. The motion was lost. The report of the community market shows that $29.20 was collected as fees during June. A charge of 15 cents is made to the farmer for parking privileges. The time was extended for decision on a camp for tourists.

The Hotel Construction company is to give a bond of $10,000 in a week's time or the city will take possession of Pearl street, which that company has at present closed. It was voted to lay sidewalks on both sides of Elm street.

A state convocation of the Knights of Templars is to be held in Ypsilanti July 25, and a communication from David Harris was read asking permission for a parade at 2 p. m. that day on the business streets of the city. It was voted to leave the authority with the chief of police whether or not to close those streets to traffic at the time of the parade.

Mrs. Mary Shipman was granted permission to build a garage at 317 West Michigan avenue. Sumner Damon was granted permission to cut a tree on the margin of his lot. A sidewalk is to be built on the north side of Pearl street from Summit to Elm court. Mr. Wilson appeared for the farm bureau, protesting their tax assessment, which was raised from $12,000 to $20,000. No action was taken on the matter. It was voted to submit at the coming election the proposition to amend the city charter relative to bonding the city for city improvements.

FARM BUREAU PLANS TO BUY AMENDT PROPERTY

The Ypsilanti Farm Bureau may purchase the Amendt Milling company's plant on East Cross street. They have an option on the property, good until August 1, and are now engaged in a membership drive to increase their organization from 250 to 300 members. This new membership is now nearly completed.

Manager Wilson of the Farm Bureau says that the present elevator and feed mill of the local bureau has been worked to capacity for the past year and business had to be turned away.

As evidence of the business being done by the Farm Bureau and the way it is increasing its activities Mr. Wilson says that the sales of the Farm Bureau for the first six months of 1922 totaled $92,554, as compared with $108,000 total sales for 1921.

SELLS INTEREST IN TAILOR SHOP.

Frank Miller, who has for many years been the proprietor of a tailor shop on Huron street, has sold his interest to Edwin Hill, of Detroit. Failing health has caused Mr. Miller to give up his work.

FORDS COLLIDE.

Two Ford coupes collided at the intersection of Perrin and Cross streets Monday afternoon. The machine of Miss R. Klough, a student at the Normal college, was badly damaged. Miss Beth Holmes, of Alma, was driving the other car. Neither girl was injured.

JOSEPH MANNING.

Joseph Manning, for many years a Western Union telegraph operator here, died at the Masonic home at Alma Monday morning after a long illness. The funeral will be held from the home of his cousin in Dearborn Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

TO OPEN FURNITURE STORE ON HURON STREET.

The store building next to The Record office on Huron street, recently vacated by the California fruit store, is undergoing repairs and will soon be opened up as a furniture store, operated by Charles Sweet and N. P. Wallace.

Both men are well known in Ypsilanti. Mr. Sweet for years has been in the dry goods business and Mr. Wallace in the undertaking business.

WILLIAMS GIVES FINE ADDRESS

SAYS THAT AMERICAN NEGRO
ONLY ASKS EQUAL OPPORTUNITY.

Dr. Charles Sumner Williams, of Indianapolis, gave a lecture Monday night at the First M. E. church here on "The New Interracialism." He said:

"Good will toward all men will bring an era of prosperity and peace, and prejudice and strife will fade away. Jealousy, misunderstanding and fear are responsible for prejudice. The new racialism is not built on physical kinship but on a spiritual kinship. In America all groups are American first and groups afterwards. The first step should be a comity of all races. There should be a thorough understanding of races. The Negro is not a junior race nor has he been a parasite. Socrates had big lips, flat feet. He was a Negro. Many of the early philosophers were Negroes. He has participated in philosophy, law and mathematics since the beginning. The Negro in America is the white man's best friend."

"The American Negro need not be ashamed of his ancestry. He has made his mark in the past, is making it now, and will continue to make it. When we say we are one commercially and civilly does not mean that we are one socially. We can not force men to accept men's company. The American Negro only asks for a square deal and an equal opportunity. We are spending five millions to Christianize Africa and sending twenty millions of liquor into Africa. This should not be so."

"Any man or group of men who stir up prejudice of any kind among groups is not a good American. They are anti-American. They know if they can divide people and groups of people on account of race or religion they can weaken America. Germany was efficient in the late war because her people were united."

"The color line should be abolished in labor unions. The ungodly capitalist knows that if the white man strikes he can get the colored men to take their places. It is the same spirit today that existed before the Civil war, when the same group of men who desired men to work for nothing now will not let them work for pay. Certain organizations are trying to stir up hatred here in the north and northwest, even as well as in the south. But the black men do not fear. They have been faithful to America in the past and they believe that the better class of Americans will be faithful to them."

"The American Negro must separate himself from all political parties and must vote on issues and not on party lines. When I travel in the south they treat me like a king. They have separate depots and cars for me. I do not like that. I would rather they would treat me as other folks. Some people say that the way to settle the race problem is to send the Negro back to Africa. I say that when the Germans return to Germany, the English to England, the Spaniards to Spain, and the Italians to Italy, then we will return to Africa."

"There is no race problems in Brazil, where the president is a Negro. It is not the only republic in the western hemisphere that has a president with Negro blood in his veins."

The audience attending the lecture was half white and half colored, and some of Ypsilanti's leading citizens attended. Prof. Carl Lindgren, of the Normal college, sang a group of songs. A quartet of colored persons also sang. Rev. J. W. Edgill, of Ann Arbor, gave the invocation. Rev. E. B. Williams, of Brown Chapel A. M. E. church, presided at the meeting.

BUY WHITTAKER STORE.

Arthur Petts and M. J. McCune, of Detroit, have purchased the Eben Wilson general store at Whittaker and make announcement of the new ownership and their policies in selling merchandise to the residents of Whittaker and surrounding country.

Frank K. Newton of this city, United States marshal for this district, was authorized Monday in Detroit to swear in 50 additional deputies. It is believed that the addition was given at Mr. Newton's request that he be given more men to cope with the bootlegging element.

Special—The Ypsilanti Record until January 1, 1923, for only 25 cents. Good only to those living within a radius of 15 miles of Ypsilanti.

They are capital entertainers and the programs presented by them are sure to be a musical and entertainment treat, which will be long remembered by Chautauqua audiences. Chautauqua Week Here July 27 to August 3.

REDPATH CHAUTAUQUA HERE THURSDAY 27TH.

The Redpath Chautauqua will be a welcome visitor to the people of Ypsilanti and vicinity when they open their engagement in this city next Thursday, July 27. This popular organization needs no introduction here, as for several years they have been annual visitors.

Each year seems to be always just a little better than the previous year and this year is no exception. Ypsilanti lovers of high-class entertainment are going to be just as well pleased with the program, which carries 18 attractions, including two notable comedies, "Turn to the Right" and "Friendly Enemies." Lieurance Little Symphony orchestra, Collegian Male quartet, Irene Stolofsky and assisting artists, Montague Light Opera singers, Vierra's Hawaiians, Cramer-Kurk trio, Jess Pugh, fun specialist, a special children's program and notable lectures on timely topics.

REV. LEVERING TALKS TO ROTARIANS.

Rev. Berton Levering was the speaker at the Rotary luncheon Monday noon. Rotarian Levering was a delegate from the Ypsilanti club to the international convention held in Los Angeles last month. He gave a very interesting account of his trip and activities of the convention.

It was arranged for a golf tournament between players from the Ann Arbor Rotary club and the Ypsilanti Rotary club. Carl Lindgren and Leo Whitmore will represent Ypsilanti in arranging the finals.

ADVERTISE SALES IN RECORD

Three Ypsilanti merchants are advertising sales in this issue. They are the Sullivan-Cook company, announcing their reorganization sale; the Walk-Over Shoe company's third annual July Red Arrow sale, and the Ypsi Bootery's closing out sale. George Renton is also announcing the introduction of his new Ypsi bread.

It will pay the readers of The Record to read these ads, as each firm is placing before them an opportunity to save money on high-class merchandise.

PURCHASES INTEREST IN SULLIVAN-COOK CO.

A reincorporation of the Sullivan-Cook company will take place in the very near future. In fact, on August 1 Mr. Wm. Snyder, one of Ypsilanti's well known young men, will become associated with this firm, under the corporate name of the Sullivan-Snyder company.

For several years Mr. Snyder has been the head clerk with the Sullivan-Cook company and has made many friends, not only for the company but for himself, and these friends will be glad to hear of his start in the business world with this well known and popular men's furnishing store.

For 20 years this firm has catered to the wants of the men and boys in this community and has built up a reputation for honest dealing and good merchandise that cannot be excelled in any locality in the state. It is not only an honor for a young man to establish himself with a firm of this kind, but good business judgment, and The Record joins with the public in wishing the new organization success and a long and prosperous business career.

Mr. Snyder has purchased the interest of George A. Cook in the firm of Sullivan-Cook company. Mr. Cooks finds that too much of his time is demanded as postmaster.

GRANGERS HEAR FINE IMPROMPTU PROGRAM

An unusually interesting impromptu program was enjoyed by the members of the Ypsilanti Grange at their meeting in the Masonic temple Saturday.

Prof. M. S. Pittman, the first speaker called upon, gave an interesting address, taking for his theme "Dependable People" and telling of the necessity of dependability in all walks of life.

Prof. N. A. Harvey gave a fine talk on his line of work at the Normal college. He told how the measurement and growth of plants was accomplished and gave an interesting account of the habits of spiders.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Strang talked on their recent travels in Oklahoma and Kansas City, emphasizing the parts which would be of interest to the Grangers.

Mrs. E. T. Green told of her winter's stay in Florida. All of the addresses were given with no preparation but proved decidedly interesting.

FORMER LOCAL PASTOR IS HONORED.

Rev. C. M. Creighton, formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church here, was recently honored by having conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Divinity by Park college, Parkville, Mo.

Rev. Creighton graduated from Park college in 1897 and this year returned for commencement. He came to Ypsilanti after a year's study in Scotland and held the local post from June, 1907, to November, 1911.

MACHINES COLLIDE ON SALINE ROAD.

Two machines were badly damaged Monday morning when a Ford owned and driven by Jasper Van Houtan, of Detroit, collided with a Chevrolet driven by George McCalla, of this city, collided on the Saline road near here.

Mr. McCalla was driving out of the Button farm drive when Van Houtan approached going west. The fenders and radiators on both cars were taken to local garages.

Lou White is chairman of the committee that met in the Masonic temple Thursday evening to discuss plans. All Masons in Washtenaw county and their families will be invited. There will be sports of all kinds, and it is hoped to make the celebration a real homelike affair.

KIWANIS HEAR PROF. F. CHENEY

INVENTOR OF PHONOGRAPH
TELLS KIWANIANS OF FIRST
TALKING MACHINE MADE

Prof. Forest Cheney, phonograph inventor, of Chicago, spoke before the Kiwanis club Wednesday. He said:

"Common sense is one of the rarest things in the world. Human nature has the wrong view of life. Too many of us are morose and sullen and we lose the proper viewpoint of life. I was an artist 25 years ago and I thought before I became a business man that all of the art and beauty and joy of the world was wrapped up in my profession as an artist. I find in business more color and romance than in the so-called aesthetic life."

"If it were not for business men we would have no art or music. You business men are the ones that pay the price and make art and music possible. The first talking machine was made many thousands of years ago at the garden of Eden. Many good ones have been manufactured since, but none equals the first in reproduction."

"The phonographs that will live are the ones that give value received. The tendency of all big men today is to be conservative. The only way to bring back normal conditions is to stop shooting bunk and be conservative. We have not yet recovered from our five years of riotous spending. We do not want another boom like the one we have passed."

Robert Luscombe sang a group of songs. He was accompanied on the piano by James Breakey, Arthur J. Tinker and Wm. Snyder were taken in as new members.

BUSINESS-PROFESSIONAL WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Ypsilanti Business and Professional Women's club held their regular meeting at the Ladies' Literary club house Tuesday evening with Miss Mary Hoover acting as chairman of the committee.

The initiation of four new members brought the number to 52. For the newly initiated sponsors were appointed who will give to them full information concerning the club, its customs and activities.

Miss Vesta Goldsmith was elected vice-president in place of Miss Hazel Sorenson, who is about to leave Ypsilanti. Five representatives were appointed at the request of the national headquarters to file with them the names of ten per cent of their membership for work along public lines. Those chosen were Mrs. Harry L. Smith, the Misses Margaret Boss, Mary Hoover, Gertrude Parsons and Mrs. Ethel Van Etten.

Tuesday, August 1, the club will hold a picnic at Prospect park. Cars will leave the club house for the park at 5:30. The committee on transportation is Miss Inez Graves, and that on the supper, the Misses Florence Cook, Mabel Freeman, Hattie Meyer and Helen Gauss.

MIXED MARITAL RELATION EXPOSED IN ACCIDENT

The way of the transgressor is hard. At least Tony Ryszaski and Antoinette Wynejak, both of Detroit, thought so Sunday evening after they regained consciousness in Bever hospital.

The pair are both married, but not to each other, and were out Sunday afternoon enjoying a motorcycle ride, when they met with an accident near Belleville. They were rushed to Bever hospital here, where the man is suffering from a fractured skull and wrist and the woman from concussion of the brain.

The wife and husband of the pair were notified and hospital attendants had a hard time preventing the two from doing more violence to the injured couple. Their condition was said to be serious this morning.

RAY BATTERY DEFEATS ROYAL GIANTS.

Sunday the Ray Battery defeated the Royal Giants, a local colored team, by a score of 4 to 1. Ferenze was on the mound for the Battery boys and Pitts did the twirling for the Giants.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Sanderson and daughter, Hazel, of Detroit, were recent guests of Mrs. Alice Thumm.

MCINTYRE BARN BURNS SUNDAY

ONCE LARGEST BARN IN COUNTY REDUCED TO ASHES—LOSS ESTIMATED
AT $25,000.

The large barn and outbuildings on the Charles McIntyre farm, four miles south of this city, on the Huron road, burned to the ground Sunday evening and practically all the contents were destroyed.

The fire is believed to have started by spontaneous combustion and was not discovered until about 9 o'clock in the evening. There had been a thunder and lightning storm earlier in the evening but as the barn was equipped with lightning rods it was not considered necessary to inspect the premises. The storm occurred between 7 and 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Maultbetsch, tenants on the farm, were preparing to retire, when Mrs. Maultbetsch noticed flames on the upper part of the building. Mr. Maultbetsch succeeded in leading all the horses from the barn to a neighbor's, while the hay in the mangers was burning. Mrs. Maultbetsch was driven from the barn by the dense smoke while endeavoring to release some calves. Four calves, one pig, a dog and a number of chickens and ducks were lost.

The season's hay crop, except four loads, had been stored in the barn, and a quantity of machinery, including a tractor, all the property of Mr. Maultbetsch, were also destroyed. The wheat crop was not in the barn, as it was to have been threshed Monday. The loss is estimated by Mr. McIntyre at between $20,000 and $25,000, only partially covered by insurance. Mr. Maultbetsch carried no insurance on his farm tools.

Difficulty was experienced by the many volunteer workers in saving the house and the buildings of neighboring farmers, as a strong southwest wind was blowing and flaming brands lit on many adjacent roofs. Some are said to have fallen on the home of Mrs. Clara Moore, a mile away. Fire was started on a building belonging to Palmer Gridley, across the road, but was soon extinguished.

The flame-lit sky was seen as far as Detroit and at all nearby towns. This called a large crowd and the roads for miles around were packed with automobiles, making it impossible to pass. Men sat on neighboring roofs throughout the night in order to prevent the buildings from being ignited.

The barn was built in 1889 and at that time was the show-place of the county. It measured 100x60x60 and was built of the best materials. Some idea of its sturdiness may be obtained from the knowledge that no pillars marred the vast expanse of the second floor.

Palmer Gridley was the only one injured. He jumped upon a nail, making an ugly wound in his foot.

WASHTENAW COUNTY FAIR PREMIUM BOOK READY

The Washtenaw County fair premium book is now ready for distribution and arrangements have been made to place one in every mail box in the county. Any person not receiving one by July 27 should notify the fair office promptly so one can be mailed. Each book contains an entry sheet, but those requiring more than one sheet will be supplied upon request.

Abundance of fun and amusement have been secured for the fair but amusement is only a small part of the requirements of a successful fair. The first and most important is a large and varied exhibit by the growers and producers of the county and in preparing the exhibit special attention should be given to the premium book and entry sheet, rules and regulations.

Those who have not already made plans for an exhibit should do so at once, as by planning ahead and bringing as many different varieties as possible quite a little of premium money can be won without a great deal of effort.

In the past many classes that have been open to exhibitors have not been filled, though premium money was offered and could have been had if the class had been filled. Every person who is in position to make an exhibit should realize the obligation and privilege that in his and by showing what he has contributed just that much to the success of the fair.

ISSUES WARRANT FOR COMBS ON THIRD CHARGE.

Justice Stadtmiller this morning issued a warrant for R. B. Combs, of Greenberg, Ind., who is wanted here on two other charges. The complaint signed this morning accuses Combs of giving a bogus check to Sullivan-Cook company for $15. Combs is fighting extradition on the other charges.

25 cents will secure The Ypsilanti Record until January 1, 1923, to those who live within 15 miles of Ypsilanti. A home paper that you will like.

Vierra's Hawaiians Popular Chautauqua Attraction

The present wide-spread interest in the South Seas renders especially timely the appearance here at the forthcoming Redpath Chautauqua of Albert Vierra with his company of native Hawaiian singers and players.

Vierra first appeared in this country at the San Francisco exposition. There he and his company won an enthusiastic reception and he has been measurably responsible for the subsequent popularity of Hawaiian music in the United States.

The company will play the beautifully-toned stringed instruments peculiar to Hawaii and will feature the haunting, plaintive melodies characteristic of their native music.

Life's Two Currents.

Life is made up of two currents—the events and opportunities moving towards us and the thoughts and impulses that we send out towards others.

Horseshoe Pitchers Title Will Be Decided at Fair; County Contests Started

"There wasn't no horseshoe pitchers in Michigan that could hold a candle to the barnyard champions of Macomb county."

This innocent little boast, falling unconsciously from the lips of "Spud" Murphy of Macomb county recently, started a fine argument and the finals of the Michigan State championship horseshoe pitching tournament, now being organized under the auspices of The Michigan Business Farmer, will be put on at the State Fair this year.

George W. Dickinson, secretary-manager of the Michigan State Fair, has sanctioned the plan to stage the title rounds of the tournament during the exposition in Detroit, September 1 to 10. Several prizes will be awarded by the State Fair in addition to the beautiful loving cup, the grand prize, presented by the courtesy of the Union Malleable Iron company of Moline, Ill.

The plan of the preliminaries, according to Forrest Lord, editor of the Michigan Business Farmer, is to hold them in conjunction with farmers' picnics in every county. The winners of these county tournaments will play in district contests and these victors will meet in the grand state tournament at the Michigan State Fair.

Everyone is eligible to participate. Entries for the preliminaries should be made to county agents. No time in entering should be lost. All county contests must be played off before the opening of the Michigan State Fair, September 1.

AGENTS SELL WOMAN PAPER LINOLEUM.

Mrs. Addie B. Minor complained to the police Monday evening that two agents sold her some painted paper for linoleum.

The men had the article on the floor and one of them agreed to let her have it for $8.50. The other one said that was too cheap and started to roll it up. Then the other fellow said: "Now, I said she could have it for that, so better let her have it."

She took it and paid $8.50, only to find later she had been bamboozled and that the so-called linoleum was painted paper.

ARRESTED FOR CHILD ABANDONMENT.

Joseph H. Jensen, aged 54 years, was arrested Tuesday and locked up in jail for officers of Duluth, Minn., where Jensen is wanted on a charge of abandonment of a minor child. Jensen has been employed the past two weeks at the Ray Battery company. Frank L. Magie, sheriff of St. Louis county, Minnesota, was expected to come after Jensen Wednesday.

Pretty Music.

Dorothy, three years old, lives at New Albany. Her father took her to the barber shop to have her hair trimmed, and the electric clippers almost drove the little girl into spasms of fear despite the kind assurances that they would not hurt her. She had a big audience before the task was completed.

Next day Dorothy went to visit a neighbor who lived near the barber shop. Shortly after her arrival she heard music and inquired its location. On being informed that it was at the barber's she replied:

"Well, I don't think his music is pretty."—Indianapolis News.

FORMED NEW VOCAL CORD

Tissues, After Operation, Grew Together, and Voice Is Said to Be Improved.

In three out of four cases in which Dr. H. Burger resected the vocal cords the tissues grew together to form a new vocal cord. He reports to the Nederlandsch Tijdschrift v. Geneeskunde (Amsterdam) that the more radical the operation on the side wall of the throat the more the new cord approximated normal.

In all these cases the diagnosis of malignant tumor was beyond question, and the operation was done through a slit in the thyroid cartilage. No attempt was made to suture this afterward. The voice is good in all but one, who still is hoarse. The voice is very much better than in other cases in which merely the growth itself was resected and the rest of the vocal cord left. The repair after this is much less perfect. In one of his cases the repair was so perfect that in examining with the laryngoscope a year later there was some doubt as to the operated side.—New York World

HORSES AND WAGONS ARE THREATENED WITH EX-TINCTION ON GOOD ROADS.

Justice Curtiss stated Tuesday morning that while Elder Young was showing him how badly her husband was hurt from being hit by an automobile, while driving a wagon load of hay, her buggy was struck by an automobile last night in front of the judge's house and wrecked. The owner of the car has not yet been located.

Something Worth While.

"If," says the Louisiana Journal, "instead of boring holes in the earth for oil, everybody would dig a hole and plant a fruit tree there would be millions in it. A fruit tree is almost a sure thing. An oil well is a guess."

With Grotto Spectacle

Forty acres of ground, seats for 15,000 spectators and a cast of 2,000 entertainers are required for "The Awakening," the mammoth spectacle which Shadukiam Grotto will stage at Dexter boulevard and Davison avenue, Detroit, for two weeks starting July 24th. "The most mammoth entertainment ever shown in the Middle West" is the verdict of Director George Hoskyns, internationally known as a director and producer of large spectacles.

In the circus are 13 headline acts, the Jordan sisters being the premier wire walkers of the great entertainment. There will also be an army of clowns fast running horses ridden by daring men and beautiful ladies in tight, acrobats, equilibrist, trap-eze performers and performing animals.

The Detroit Street Railway is installing special loops and spur tracks for the use of the Trumbull and Hamilton cars, the two lines which reach the Grotto stadium, and the Detroit Edison Co. is setting 40 poles to carry high tension wires for the illumination of the great arena.

"The Last Days of Pompeii" and Pain's "Manhattan Beach" fireworks will both be presented under the personal direction of Henry J. Pain, their originator, and Mr. Pain states that this Detroit spectacle is the most mammoth he has ever undertaken.

Every evening during the entire length of the show a Haynes automobile will be presented to some person in the audience and on the opening night, July 24th, two Haynes cars will be given away.

Advance sale of tickets is being held at Grinnell Bros. music store, 1515 Woodward avenue Detroit.

STATE FAIR TRIP INTERESTS BOYS

YOUNGSTERS EAGERLY AWAIT JOURNEY TO DETROIT FOR 10-DAY DEMONSTRATION

HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN WILL ATTEND SCHOOLS

Everywhere in Michigan boys who won in the county competitions for free trips to the Michigan State Fair, Detroit, September 1 to 10, are preparing for their participation in the Boys' State Fair school of the seventy-third annual exposition.

Back of the boys' state fair school is the hope of building permanently in the minds of Michigan's future soil tillers what the Michigan State Fair is and hopes to accomplish.

The county eighth grade examinations for the trip to the fair this year included questions concerning state trunk line railroads, facts about Michigan which cannot be found in books, knowledge of crop rotations, warfare against weeds, insects and various other questions. Twenty questions made up the examinations.

Boys who win scholarships at the state fair all are from the rural districts. They come to the state fair at the expense of the exposition which includes transportation and living costs during the visit here.

Upon entering the school, each boy is subjected to a physical examination to determine whether or not he is strong enough to withstand the severe 10-day course.

The 10-day course includes lectures, stock judges, inspection tours through all departments and visits about Detroit. Entertainment is provided to relieve the monotony of strenuous schooling. The school superintendent is E. T. Cameron, of Lansing.

Besides the school, the Michigan State Fair also sponsors a course in conjunction with the Michigan Agricultural college, in which 150 boys and 150 girls participate. The youngsters are brought to the fair in relays of 30 every two days. When facilities permit, the entire group will be allowed to remain throughout the fair. All expenses of these children are defrayed by the fair.

Forrest A. Lord, of Mt. Clemens, a member of the board of managers, heads this department of which R. A. Turner, of Lansing, state club leader, is superintendent.

STATE FAIR RADIO SHOW PROMISES WIDE INTEREST

Considerable attention will be directed this year at the Michigan State Fair, Detroit, September 1 to 10, to the new marvel of man—radio, says George W. Dickinson, secretary-manager of the exposition.

"We believe radio has a great future on the farms and we intend to present to the farmer visitors at the Michigan State Fair, this year, an extensive exhibition of this invention," says Mr. Dickinson. "Big receiving sets will be placed in actual operation and practical demonstrations given for guests showing how the farmer in the upper peninsula can keep in constant communication with the cities by means of radio telephony."

Much space in the main building will be given over to radio exhibitions, believes Mr. Dickinson. A definite program of the radio division of the State Fair will be announced by the secretary-manager later.

RIDE PILLION ON MOTORCYCLE

Fair Riders Said to Be Deserting Saddle Horses for the Faster-Gaited Machine.

Have you seen the "pillion girl"? Not the demure, coy and shrinking maiden of years gone by, who rode "side-saddle" behind her swain on horseback, but the rollicking, daredevil knickered girl of today, perched precariously astride the extra seat on a motorcycle, bowling along the road at a 40-mile-an-hour clip.

Despite the wide dissimilarity in the style of riding, the name has persisted in England and the "pillion girls" have become so numerous in that country that recently the department on taxation and regulation of road vehicles sat in solemn conclave to decide whether the "pillion girl" is a source of danger to the general public, the New York Sun states.

It is not clear whether "general public" includes the pillion girl herself, of whether the term comprises merely the motorists of the opposite sex whose eyes are unaccountably distracted from the road by the sight of a pretty girl on the rear seat of a motorcycle, flaunting graceful, silk-clad legs, her hair flying in the wind.

In any event, the committee reports there is no appreciable amount of evidence to indicate that the practice is a source of danger to the general public. They are of the opinion that no case has been made out sufficiently strong to justify the prohibition of the practice.

On this side of the Atlantic the "pillion girl" is apparently safe from molestation. In fact, each year sees an increasing number of women operating their own motorcycles.

One of Mr. Landon's favorite impersonations is of Mark Twain as that famous humorist appeared on the occasion of his seventieth birthday anniversary banquet. Poe and Bill Nye, Tennyson and Kipling also appear in the Landon gallery of impersonative portraits.

The Landon lecture-recital is inspirational, educational and entertaining.

LOSE INTEREST IN SERENADE

Masculine Spaniards Said to Have Turned From Romance to the More Prosaic Football Game.

Sad, indeed, to lovers of the picturesque is the news which comes from Seville, Spain. The serenade, from time immemorial the quintessence of romance, is passing away and will soon be known no more. Worst of all, it is being destroyed by nothing else than modern and unromantic football. This game is at present in full vogue in Spain. Everywhere young men are passionately addicted to it, in Seville as elsewhere, so that the young Sevillians have no longer time as formerly to cultivate the song, the guitar and the mandolin. Football engrosses them.

Soon one will not find a single lover capable of playing a serenade under the balcony of his Dulcinea. If Rosina opens her window Almagro will not be there to declare to her his passion.

But lately, on Saturdays, the young Sevillians assembled and wandered through the streets of the town singing to the stars. Today they go to bed early so as to be the next morning in good form for their favorite game.

Services to Prevent Robberies.

Science, which has rendered us so many services, has now attacked a new problem. Inventors are pitilessly hunting the burglars of Paris. Many are now in search of means of defending the stores and banks against criminal attacks.

One of these most curious inventions consists of a pedal situated in the interior of the store. The burglar, if he watches the hands of the man, cannot at the same time see where he puts his feet. Then the pedal starts an electrical clockwork and at the same time an illuminated plate calling for the police appears on the outside of the store. Among the other inventions there is an overcoat with a special pocket for carrying a revolver. The weapon is so placed that when the attacked person facing the burglar raises his arms, the revolver is brought into position for firing and the act of raising his hands pulls a string which discharges it.

Liner Delayed to Save Life.

The value that we set on human life today has been dramatically illustrated by an incident on the Atlantic ocean.

An explosion in the engine-room of a freight ship caused terrible injuries to the second engineer, a young man named O'Neal. There was no doctor on board, so the captain sent out wireless calls for assistance.

Seven ships replied. In six cases doctors told the captain to treat.

PALMA PAYS $260.25, PLUS COSTS.

Justice M. B. Stadtmiller on Monday decided the case of Fred Kimball company vs. Ferdinand Palma in favor of the plaintiff, who sued Palma for $260.25, which they claimed he owed them for printing 1,000 stock catalogs for sale of blooded stock. Judgment was given the Kimball company for the amount claimed, with costs of $8.95.

RESERVES DECISION IN CASE OF KEIRL VS. STADLER.

Justice Stadtmiller on Tuesday tried the case of Wm. Keirl vs. Anna Stadler. Keirl claims Mrs. Stadler owes him $5.80 for coal, wood and borrowed money. Mrs. Stadler put in a claim asking for $100 damages of Keirl for alleged assault. Decision was reserved.

HER ENUNCIATION IN DANGER

Woman Was Beginning to Feel the Strain of Prolonged Conversation With "Foreigners"

The Woman was visiting the family on the event of the engagement of the youngest daughter. The family was Bostonian by birth and tradition, but the two eldest girls had married several years before and had left their native city. One of them married a Southerner and the other a Westerner. Each had acquired the accent of her particular locality and the children of the Southern couple had a perfect Southern drawl, while the other sister's children had the broad Western accent.

The effect was startling and the Woman could scarcely follow the conversation. It almost seemed that these sisters were from strange countries, each speaking her own tongue. The mother of the three girls was most confused. When she addressed her Southern daughter she unconsciously affected the Southern drawl and when she talked to her Western son-in-law she nearly perfected the Western accent.

In the hall later, as they were leaving, the mother clutched the Woman's arm.

"My dear," she breathed, "I'm ruining my enunciation trying to talk to these foreigners."—Chicago Journal.

The Forty Immortals.

A name often given to the 40 members of the French academy is the Immortals. These members are elected for life to the academy which meets twice weekly in Paris and which constitutes the highest authority on everything appertaining to the niceties of the French language, to grammar, rhetoric, poetry and the publication of the French classics. The academy was founded by Cardinal Richelieu in 1635, and is the most important and best known of the five academies composing the French institute, the other four being L'Academie des Inscriptions et Belles-Lettres, L'Academie des Sciences, L'Academie des Beaux-Arts, and L'Academie des Sciences Morales et Politiques. Membership in the academy is the highest distinction within the power of the nation to bestow upon a literary man.—Kansas City Star.

Relics of Long-Past Age.

A large copper kettle and other relics of a past age, believed by students of archeology to have been buried 1,000 years, were unearthed recently by Dr. H. C. Myers, professor of chemistry at Whitworth college, Spokane, Wash., a few miles north of the city, where some road excavating was being done.

"With the copper kettle," said Doctor Myers, "was the skull of an Indian, wrapped in a piece of buffalo skin. The copper was so old it had changed to copper carbonate. This chemical compound had been absorbed by the skull, and it had served as a preservative. A buckskin shirt also was found in the kettle. A few beads and some wampum also were secured from the excavation."

The Ostrich in Africa.

Some time ago the French authorities in western Africa undertook to organize the breeding of ostriches in the territory under their control. Ostriches are found wild in many parts of western Africa. Along the River Niger they avoid the neighborhood of man, but on some of the islands in that and other rivers the natives have established rude ostrich farms. One official, who was appointed to study the subject, says that the methods of the ostrich farmers of the Cape cannot be fully carried out in French territory. It is necessary to leave the ostriches in a partially nomadic state. They migrate more or less with the seasons. When it becomes too dry in the south they go northward.

The New Qualification.

American Money in Canada.

It is estimated that American investments in Canada for 1920 amounted to $22,000,000—more than half of the prewar Canadian investment. Some of the items of investment during the period under review are: Bonds purchased, $237,000,000; industrial investment, $50,000,000; western lands purchased, $7,000,000. It is also estimated that $30,000,000 of the $50,000,000 invested in industries went into the pulp and paper business.

America's Great Interpretative Dancers

Gladys Hight Ballet Groupe in Their Dance, "The Adoration of Isis" Before the Temple in "The Last Days of Pompeii".

Spectators at "The Awakening," which opens for a two weeks' run at Dexter boulevard and Davison avenue, Detroit, on July 24th, will witness the most mammoth production of the world famous pyrotechnic spectacle, "The Last Days of Pompeii" ever staged, according to the statement of Henry J. Pain, its originator. Seats for 15,000 people have been arranged, six large stages are needed to accommodate the circus acts, in addition to a race track and an artificial lake, the Detroit Street Railway has completed special loops and spur tracks for the Hamilton and Trumbull car lines, and the Detroit Edison Co. has erected a line of poles from Livernois avenue to carry the high tension wires required for lighting the great amphitheatre. In addition to the circus acts the Gladys Hight Ballet from the Chicago Opera Company augmented by 200 dancers from Detroit's schools of interpretative dancing will present the classical dances used in the Pompeian spectacle. A band of 60 pieces will supply the music.

Direction of the entire production is in the hands of George H. Hoskyn who is famous for his London and American dramatic successes.

Following "The Last Days of Pompeii" Mr. Pain will offer his "Manhattan Beach" fireworks which will conclude the third section of the performance.

Each evening during the entire length of the show a Haynes automobile will be presented, free, to some person in the audience. On the opening night two Haynes cars will be given away.

The downtown ticket office, for reserve seats and regular admissions, is at Grinnell Bros. music store, 1515 Woodward avenue, Detroit.

CONTRASTS THAT ARE VIVID

Good for Pessimist to Dwell on Difference of Life Today and Three Centuries Ago.

Just to learn how far we have come, take a look at the present and then glance backward anywhere from three centuries to times within the memory of men who are yet scarcely gray-headed. Take a walk down Leyden street and gaze on the model log cabin of the type which was once one of the best dwellings in the chief residential section of the town (Plymouth), back in 1621 and 1622. Imagine what the interior would be like on a winter day with only one fireplace harnessed to a chimney which needed a woodlot to feed it, but was a fine ventilator. Consider what the furnishings must have been and having completed this mental picture drop down several generations to the time of your great grandmother who used a smaller fireplace to do her cooking, or else had a brick oven instead of a Dutch kitchen or bake kettle for her bread and such, and the bathing facilities were—well, primitive to say the least. Yes, and she used candles dipped at home and made her soap in the backyard, the sort which took off dirt all right and seemed to carry along cuticle with it.

Later came wood-burning stoves and still later some coal was used, but not so very much, for wood by the cart load was brought into town from the back lots and sold daily in town square not 50 years ago. Lumber was sawed by hand at times and the lumber mills used the old slow single sash saw; shingles were rived by hand and split laths can be found in houses about here even now, but they are old ones. Nails were made and window sash formed the winter job for the carpenter who was building a house. Plenty more contrasts will occur if one stops to think a moment and thinking is just what the really successful preacher tries to get his audience to do. The foregoing is only the outline of the heads of the sermon about houses and their contents and surroundings.—Old Colony Memorial.

SEES LACK OF IMAGINATION

Cleveland Writer Thinks Blunders of School Children Are Less Funny Than They Were.

"It doesn't seem to me," says the Cleveland observer, "that the blunders school children make nowadays are as funny as they used to be. And this, as the sociologist will tell you, argues that the school children haven't the imagination they used to have. It takes imagination to produce entertaining blunders of this sort, as any school teacher will tell you."

Here are two related by a Cleveland teacher. To the question, "What do you know about George Washington?" a ten-year-old replied, "George hit the tree with his hatchet an' his father sed, who dun it, an' George sed, I dun it, and his father sed, enny American boy can get to be President, an' he did."

The other question was, "Who was Commodore Perry?" This was the answer: "He was out on the lake fighting an' he said, we have meet the ennyman an' then they turned him into stone."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Dead Nebulae."

There has been photographed a most singular object in the constellation Taurus, the appearance of which suggests the term "dead nebula." It is a long, straggling mass, which seems to shut out the stars behind it. All round it the stars are strewn thickly, but within its boundaries very few appear and it is suggested that these may lie on this side of it. At one point there is a small, bright nebula, which gradually fades out. The feeble portions of the nebula would almost suggest that a large nebula exists here, but that the major portion of it is dead or non-luminous. In some places the dark object is manifestly darker than the starless parts of the sky around it.—Washington Star.

Motor-Car Boat.

A vehicle which is either a motor-car or motor-boat alternately has been designed by a Philadelphia company, the hybrid being known as an automobile boat. Possessing doors that are absolutely watertight, the body of the "auto-boat" may be screwed up high above the axles when required for use in surf. Then, when deeper water has been reached, the steering-wheel which operates the front wheels while on dry land may be used to work the rudder which is in readiness astern.

Seated in such a vehicle, a motorist need fear nothing in the way of water, though it be in the form of an inundation. All that seems needed now is an adapted "auto-boat" which is capable of flying.

Portable Playhouses.

Portable playhouses are a very interesting feature of the Hartford (Conn.) playgrounds. They have red canvas roofs and wire netting walls, and each is furnished with a small wooden table, four chairs and a set of wooden blocks. So light are these houses that they can be picked up and carried about to different parts of the parks and arranged in different ways—in a circle, in rows as if facing the village street or as country places with spacious yards. In these Lilliputian villages children of the playhouse age never tire of acting out every phase of community life—playing store and bank, going to church, going to the theater and just keeping house.

Eminent Violinist and Assisting Artists Coming at the Chautauqua

Irene Stolofsky and Assisting Artists.

Irene Stolofsky, eminent violinist, who, with two assisting artists, will appear here at the coming Redpath Chautauqua, has captivated audiences in all parts of the United States. Metropolitan newspapers and music journals throughout the country accord most enthusiastic praise to her musicianship. Hugh Dimond, former concert master of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, proclaims her one of the musical sensations of the present generation. In addition to her concert work she has made numerous phonograph records.

Assisting Miss Stolofsky will be George Imbrie, noted baritone, together with an accomplished pianist. The program will be one of unusual variety, selections of worth, both vocal and instrumental, being interspersed with favorite lighter numbers.

MILK AND VITAMINES

Dr. E. V. McCollum, of Johns Hopkins University, is probably the leading scientific research authority on vitamins. He has just issued a second revised edition, completely rewritten, of "The Newer Knowledge of Nutrition," a book of over 400 pages, bringing this timely subject down to date in the light of the newest and latest dependable knowledge. He advises a quart of whole raw milk a day for adults and a corresponding amount for children. In a recent lecture he was asked the relative food value between pasteurized milk and raw milk, and answered: "The difference between milk which has been pasteurized and raw milk is that pasteurized milk does not contain one of the vitamins. An infant exclusively fed on pasteurized milk may develop a disease called scurvy." Asked as to yeast as a source of vitamins, Dr. McCollum said: "The yeast advertised as regards the vitamins contained in it is a fraud." And added: "I have been approached every month for several years to say something favorable to commercial vitamin preparations. I have on my desk in Baltimore now two letters offering me $10,000 if I would write just a few words about yeast, for example. I, of course, had to turn it down." This suggests the position occupied by Dr. McCollum in the domain of scientific research.

HAVE SLANG ALL THEIR OWN

Phrases Introduced by College Students Keep Modern Lexicographers on the Jump.

When Sir E. Bulwer Lytton penned his inspiring line on "the bright lexicon of youth," that lexicon was an open book to sages. But lately the junior lexicon has become more complicated, if not brighter. It is a puzzle even to college presidents. "Snuggle pupping," President Marion Leroy Burton of the University of Michigan remarked the other day, "is a phase of college life of which I am ignorant."

No one can blame a college president for being stumped by "snuggle pupping." Only the youngest and most alert lexicographers can hope to cope with the campus vocabulary, and they only if they take their duties very seriously. "Necking," writes one of the junior lexicographers, "is a Harvard-Yale-Princeton term, about six years old, which has displaced 'petting'—aged about twelve years—as a description of what our grandfathers used to call 'spooning.'"

A rule that will be helpful to elders groping among these complexities is to remember that, while there are many terms in the campus lexicons, there is only one topic. For "snuggle pupping" and its successors, look up "spooning."

Saw Volcano in Action.

A volcano in action was witnessed about six weeks ago by the captain of the British freighter Bounty, off the West African coast. The skipper said the Bounty was about five miles off shore when he observed smoke pouring high and profusely out of a peak inward from the Bight of Biafra, near the boundary line between Kamerun and Nigeria. Thinking he might be of assistance in the event of disaster to the villages near the seacoast he put in toward shore and went to the land in a lifeboat. He said the smoking peak was about 11,000 feet above sea level and on its westward side he observed large streams of lava. Finding no signs of human life along the shore he went back to the freighter and proceeded on his course.

Storm Country Polly

"I—lose," she hesitated, trembling, "you couldn't tell your cousin—" Her throat caught in a sob but she cleared it, and went on, "Just tell 'im Oscar wasn't my man?"

Evelyn Robertson had often lived over the horror of the minutes when the shameful secret of her marriage to Oscar Bennett was so nearly disclosed to Robert Percival. More than once had she congratulated herself upon the cleverness with which she had avoided that danger. To be sure her escape had been at the expense of Polly's reputation. She regretted the necessity but reasoned that a good name could not be much of a loss to a squatter.

"Of course I couldn't do that," she returned sharply. "Why—why should you want—"

The squatter girl's gaze lifted to the speaker's face, and tears welled over the fringed lids. Then Evelyn read the truth; and her eyes glinted and narrowed.

"Merciful Heavens, you're in love with my cousin?" she exclaimed. "Is that what you mean?"

The brown head fell forward, and a flame-hot face was hidden in the chestnut curls.

"And he loves you, too," cried Evelyn, in disdain. "What a fool I was not to discover that before! How perfectly awful! That's what has been the matter with him for months."

She snatched Pollyop's arm and shook her.

"It's absolutely mad of you to think of my cousin in that way," she continued, her voice hoarse with fear. "Promise me again you'll never tell him about Oscar?"

Pollyop shook her head. "I've never told nothing; I've said I wouldn't," she replied thickly, almost sullenly.

Then Evelyn smiled. The dimples played hide and go seek at the corners of her lovely mouth. The steely-blue glint faded from her eyes, leaving them the color of heavenly tints. She was certain her secret was as safe in the breast of Polly Hopkins as it was in the heart of the dead Oscar. "You shall see your father," she said, dropping her hand, "and you can have any dress I have to wear. Come up tonight, at seven. The folks will be at dinner; and I'll slip out and bring you in."

Then she went away, leaving Polly Hopkins alternately plunged into the depths of despair when she thought of Robert Percival and singing with gladness over the joy in store for Wee Jerry and Daddy Hopkins.

It was still broad day when Polly Hopkins left Wee Jerry playing by the water's edge with some squatter youngsters and started for the Robertson home. True to her word, Evelyn met her in the grape arbor at seven and hastily led her up the back stairs to her bedroom.

"There are the closets," she said. "Take anything you like, Polly, but hurry. The cook's in the kitchen, and the other maids are busy. I'll go down for fear someone will come to find me. There's the dinner gong."

Once alone in the beautiful room, Polly's gaze swept its broad dimensions. It did not occur to her to cover the least of those gorgeous surroundings. She only wanted something to wear to Auburn, something to celebrate her visit and do Daddy Hopkins proud. She swung open a closet door and peered in.

The sound of laughter somewhere in the house sent a wave of terror over her. She snatched at the first gown under her hand, rolled it into a bundle and fled down the stairs. Until she was in the lane again, she did not breathe easily.

Once back in the shanty, Pollyop hid the dress beneath her bed without even daring to look at it. How Evelyn was to arrange the visit to Auburn, she did not know, but of one thing she was sure, she had a beautiful dress to wear.

After she had put the child to bed, and the door was securely locked, Polly drew the curtains tightly over the small windows. Even the corners of the room lost their shadows; and "The Greatest Mother in the World" seemed to stand out more plainly than even when the sun shone.

Pollyop placed her warm cheek against the picture and smiled. She earnestly believed this wonder-mother was helping her to go and see Daddy Hopkins. She turned and looked longingly at the sick little man, then upward to the woman's face.

"You've done so much for me an' Jerry, ma'am," she whispered. "Mebbe sometime you'd make him smile just once at me."

Then she took the bundle from under her cot and spread out her treasure. It was a delicate shimmering silk, and in it was the color of the sun just before he sailed over the western hill on his journey around the earth. There could not be such another beautiful gown in all the world, Polly thought. Then she slowly slipped from her own ragged dress and stopped a moment, contemplating Daddy Hopkins' big boots. Even to Polly's primitive mind they did not seem to be just the thing to wear with such a dress. So the boots, too, came off.

As if she had been handling eggs, she drew on the beautiful robe, her bare neck and forearms gleaming white in the candlelight.

Then back and forth she walked, entranced with its voluptuous loveliness. But twist and turn as best she might, she could not see the whole of her golden glory; so she took down Daddy Hopkins' cracked piece of mirror which he had used when pulling out his shaggy whiskers with the tweezers. By the aid of it, she could get glimpses of her slim young figure and the graceful sweep of the skirt. Holding the glass higher up, she studied her slender neck where the sun had tanned it. But that did not matter, for Daddy Hopkins loved her in spite of it.

As if She Had Been Handling Eggs, She Drew on the Beautiful Robe, Her Bare Neck and Forearms Gleaming White in the Candle Light.

All at once she heard a knock against the side of the hut. Hastily slipping out of the dress and folding it, she shoved it under her pillow. Then she put on her old dress and opened the door.

Larry Bishop was there, extending her a letter. Taking the note in amazement, she smiled and thanked him.

"Ain't you comin' in, Larry?" she asked. "Kinda chilly tonight, huh?"

The squatter stepped inside, his cap in his hand.

"Yep, too cold for summer, Poll," he returned. "Say, brat, how you gettin' on? Got 'nough beans left for a while?"

"Sure, more'n enough, Larry," she replied. "I writ Daddy in my letter yesterday how blessed good you'd all been to me. I bet, when I get face to face with 'im, I'll tell things I can't scribble. An' now you go bringin' me this."

She tapped the letter with her fingers as a mysterious smile touched her lips.

The man shook his head grimly. "You won't be seein' your dad very soon, Pollyop," he muttered, "not if I guess right."

"Mebbe I will," she told him, fingering the letter.

She liked Larry Bishop very much, but she was eaten up with curiosity to know the contents of the envelope in her hand. Perhaps, oh, might it be— "Where'd you get this, Larry?" she asked, holding it up.

"I was comin' down the lane," explained Bishop, "an' a feller asked me if I knowed where the Hopkins was."

He paused, hoping she would open it in his presence. Being persuaded she did not intend to, he went out. His footsteps had no sooner died away than Polly sprang to the door and barred it. Then she turned the letter over and over and looked at it. Her name was on it; so it must be meant for her to read. A thrill of pleasure ran over her. Perhaps Robert had sent her a word of forgiveness. He might have written that some day he would come again.

With sparkling anticipation she cut open the envelope and by the light of the candle spelled out its contents.

"Dear Polly," she read. "I couldn't manage that trip to Auburn. So sorry. "E."

Polly looked dully at the paper, the words running into black smudgy lines. Then she could not go to Daddy Hopkins after all; and Jerry might die! Old Marc had once more laid his powerful hand upon her. Overcome with grief, she wept a while. Then she took the dress from under the pillow, rolled it carefully in a clean cloth and put it away.

The shock of Evelyn's cold note brought back the shadows to Pollyop's brown eyes. As the days passed slowly by, and the rich girl did not come to the shack again, Polly lost all hope of seeing her father.

Her decision to go to Auburn in spite of Old Marc followed a letter that she received from Daddy Hopkins. He was very lonely, he said. He was counting off each day as so many hours nearer the time when he could see his dear children. With the picture of Daddy's loneliness stamped in misery on her mind came the thought that no one had the right to keep Jerry from his father.

From the time she conceived this idea, it never left her thoughts. She had often stolen rides on the Lehigh Valley train from Ithaca to the Silent City and dropped off where the engine took a switch while the Buffalo Special dashed by. Why could she not steal a ride clear to Auburn?

While the squatter girl was making arrangements to carry out this mighty plan, preparations for the MacKenzie-Robertson wedding were going rapidly forward. Evelyn, happy in her new love, untroubled by sympathy for the dead Oscar, passed the days mostly at dressmakers and in the shops. Her contentment would have been complete if her cousin Robert had not looked so sad, or if she could have rid herself of the sense of responsibility for his unhappiness. But hoping in her flippant way that all would come out well after she was married, she gave little heed to him and none at all to Polly Hopkins.

Early one morning Polly hopped quickly out of bed and after a breakfast of bread and beans, began to dress Jerry in the best he had. The day was chilly, and a fine rain drizzled over the lake.

Pollyop wrapped Granny Hope's old shawl around the little boy and tied a warm rag about his head; and the child, satisfied with his sister's assurance that he was going to see his father, sat on the cot wide-eyed, watching her in silence.

Polly combed her hair and washed her face and hands. Billy-goat Hopkins was in his place at the wood-box eating a handful of oats she had gleaned for him along the roadside. Polly wished that she might take him, too, but as long as she could not, Billy should have a better feed than usual.

After everything else was attended to, she unwrapped the silken dress and put it on. Her bare feet showed from under the hem, but she had decided she looked better without the boots, and as she stood gazing at herself up and down, she regretted that she had not asked Evelyn for a pair of shoes too. Being careful not to soil her skirt, she knelt and allowed Jerry to climb on her shoulders.

The moment she stood outside the shanty in the rain, she shivered. The damp air nipped at her uncovered arms and neck. To travel the long distance to the station, so illy covered, was out of the question, and the gown would be drenched through in a few minutes. She turned back into the shack and placed Jerry on the cot.

"Jerry wants to see Daddy Hopkins," the child whimpered. "Ain't we goin', Pollyop?"

"Yep, sure!" said Polly. "But sister's got to put on her boots. She can't go this way. It's too cold and the walk to Ithaca's too long, honey."

Her brow puckered into a frown as she drew on her father's heavy boots and slipped on his ragged coat. Then she tucked the dress into the top of the boots that it might show as little as possible and went out again.

It was a long climb to the boulevard; and the boy was heavy. But he was very quiet, and a sudden rush of tears almost blinded her as she turned toward the city. How delighted both Jerry and Daddy would be when they spied each other! Gulping down her tears, she shut out the thought that perhaps some one would catch her breaking the law and clap her in jail too.

Granny Hope and her toothless smile flashed before the eyes of her tortured soul.

"Ask and it shall be given thee," seemed to leap from the vision of old age.

"I did ask," Pollyop cried aloud, "but Old Marc said I couldn't."

In the past months which had taken away three of her loves, many of the lessons Mrs. Hope had taught her had been effaced. She had even given up the habit of asserting with utmost faith: "Underneath are the everlasting arms."

She was almost overcome with terror and fatigue as she neared the station. One thing seemed to clear her brow of wrinkles and lighten the load she was carrying. Not a soul was in sight. Even the station appeared to be deserted.

At the northern end of the Auburn car, which was waiting for the engine to pick it up, Pollyop halted. She walked around it stealthily, and then climbed up the steps. A little cry of joy leaped to her lips as the door opened under her touch.

Holding her breath, she shifted Jerry to her arms and crept slowly in.

Rapidly she examined every corner; but all the places large enough to hold them both were in plain sight of anyone walking through. At the extreme end she discovered the stair-room; and when she went into it, a thankful feeling swept over her. It was as if that empty cabin, with its many dark places, had been built there just for them. Here she could stow Jerry away and hide herself out of sight.

Under one of the cross seats she placed the child, whispering a warning that he must be very quiet because, if a big man found them, he could not go to Daddy Hopkins. Then under the side seat that ran lengthwise, Polly crawled, and after she had completely secreted herself, she drew down the velvet half-curtain that hung from the seat. It seemed hours before she heard a sound. She hissed a warning to Jerry, then waited in nervous tension.

From the station platform voices seemed suddenly to rise up from every quarter. Pollyop closed her eyes, too confused to think of anything to dissipate the agony of mind she was undergoing.

A few minutes before train time a high-powered motor car drew up to the platform.

"We've got the drawing-room, Marc," explained Robert Percival, "and while you three are shopping, I'm going to dig around Auburn a bit."

"I suppose you're going to call on your friend, Jeremiah," taunted MacKenzie. "Bob, I'll give you a pointer. Drop that case! There's no power on earth that can open the prison doors for Hopkins."

To this Robert did not reply. In deep reverie he helped his aunt and cousin from the automobile and followed them to the car.

When Polly heard a number of people come into the station, she

If Milady wants to make her summer complete she must have a bathing suit—and if she is very fastidious she will want the nobby shoes and caps that go with a complete bathing outfit. If she wants to combine good style with good values she will look over the stock of bathing supplies which we are showing.

No summer is really enjoyed unless one can enjoy a cool plunge in the river or lake—and nowadays when the beaches are always lined with onlookers as well as the bathers themselves—Milady must be doubly careful that she looks well and right up to the minute. The swim is twice as much fun if she has that coveted feeling that she is being admired. If she has inspected our line of bathing suits and picked out the one that is just exactly suited to her complexion she will be sure to have this feeling.

Dainty Underthings

When the summer frock is sheer and airy Milady must look to her underthings to be sure that they are just right. We have a shipment of lingerie—with a wide choice in materials and styles—Philippine underwear is always good and it always looks so fresh and cool. Then we have the silks—crepe de chine or wash satin—or—we have the dainty batistes and cotton materials—all of them will wash and all are very good this season. If Milady would be a little different we suggest gingham or pongee—they are very good this season. As for styles—we leave it to you—there are so many models—and all of them are so good looking—some are fancy creations of art—ribbon and lace bedecked—others are more tailored but just as nobby.

We have just received a shipment of extra fine quality silk hose—in all colors—black, white and beige seem to be the best—some are fancy models, with cobweb designs—some are plain, heavy silk—but all of them are lovely, and best of all they are durable.

BOTH WILD, FOR SHORT TIME

Imprisoned Cat and Kansas City Man
Alike in Disposition Until Storm
Calmed Down.

In Enid, Okla., according to a Kansas City man who goes there frequently, there is a collector of curiosities peculiar to the state. His line ranges from Indian moccasins to live coyotes. In fact he handles anything that might appeal to the romantic impulses and purses of Easterners.

This dealer's store window recently attracted the interested attention of a portly salesman who was strolling about the town in company with the Kansas City man. With this obese traveling man to pause was to sit. The only convenient seat in this case was a box on the sidewalk in front of the store window. A piece of burlap had been spread over it.

The portly one just settled himself comfortably to enjoy the window display when his companion heard a snarling scream within the box and almost simultaneously the fat man was seen rising high in the air, propelled by his own sturdy legs. A howl from him mingled with the falsetto one which emanated from beneath the burlap.

Subsequent investigation developed that the box was really a crate containing a temperamental wildcat about to be shipped East. The animal had been seized with an impulse to test its lungs and claws at about the time the salesman placed the posterior part of his anatomy so convenient for claw testing.

DEMAND FOR CASCARA BARK

Industry Was Once a Baby, but It Has Developed Greatly in Washington State.

A half million dollars was the value of this season's cascara bark, harvested by Grays Harbor (Wash.) folk. It is the peeled leather-like skin of the barberry tree, stripped by settlers and city dwellers who spend six weeks each spring in the swampy forests near Hoquiam.

Six years ago this bark gathering industry was a babe, the few who attempted to sell the peeled bark getting from 3 to 4 cents per pound for it—not knowing just how to properly cure and pack it.

Then came the drug famine. The wholesale price which has gradually been rising is now 15 cents per pound and skillful strippers make $10 to $15 per day. With a knife an incision is made near the ground and a piece of bark once loosened there may be pulled from the tree upward for ten to fifteen feet. Taking but a part of the bark does not injure the tree.

Likes Color.

The other evening one of the charity organizations was giving a supper for a number of poor children of Indianapolis. One of the women had baked a particularly nice angel food cake for the occasion. One little boy attracted her interest and she decided that no matter what happened he should have a piece of her cake.

Accordingly she offered two or three women in passing their cakes by to get her own. She carried a big piece to the little fellow who gave it one look and said: "We got bread at home, lady. Please gimme some cake."

Crestfallen, she carried back her own cake and got him a piece of marble cake in which red and white mingled. And now she says, "No more angel food cake for me for charity parties."

Truth Mixed With Poetry.

A Muncie lawyer was making his first church speech. It was a welcome to the new minister, and in it he was telling of the beauties of his home town. He spoke of the streets, the residences and then he began on the trees. "I have one great tree in my yard," he said, "that means more to me than any other in town. Whenever I pass it I think of how often I have reached into its boughs to pluck the spring blossoms—" little eight-year-old son who had been paying close attention to father's speech spoke up. "Don't forget the caterpillars, too, father," he said. "We have to burn 'em about that time, too."—Indianapolis News.

—And then came an interruption.

Shipping Sheet Rubber.

A new case for shipping sheet rubber has been introduced into Singapore shipping circles by an American firm. These reach local exporters in the form of sheets made of 100 per cent fiber, the riveting, packing and wiring being done by the shippers. The thinness of the sheets enables the cases built from them to hold from 12 to 25 per cent more weight of rubber than the old wooden boxes, and the new construction is practically unbreakable, very cleanly and water-proof.—Scientific American.

Speeches Quickly Reported.

When Governor Miller of New York makes a speech he takes along three of his own stenographers, a typewriter, and a mimeographing machine. The stenographers work in shifts, so that copies of his speech made in New York recently were available 9 minutes and 10 seconds after he had spoken the last word.—Exchange.

Change of Subject.

"Do you think Mars is inhabited?" "I'm looking the matter up," replied Senator Sorghum, "along with evolution. My wife says we men have made such a muddle as politicians that it's time we took up science or literature or something."

Surely.

An apple a day may keep a doctor away, but it depends on where you hit him with it.

RAY BATTERY PRESENTS GAME TO DETROIT STARS

The Ray Battery met bitter defeat Saturday afternoon at Ray park when they took on the Detroit All-Stars, leaders of the Negro National league, and to make matters more bitter they helped generously, in fact they presented the visitors with the game. Despite this the game was well worth watching. The Detroiters put up league brand of ball and if the locals had played as they are capable of playing the score would have been more favorable. The Stars walked away with a 4-2 score.

The crowd in attendance was by far the largest ever assembled within the new park, official estimates giving the number as around one thousand. The grandstand and bleachers were filled early and solidly packed lines of motors extended along the first and third base lines. Elton Rynearson, bulwark of the Ray team, easily held the edge over his opponent in the pitching line and had he been given the airtight support that the other was given the local nine would still be without the sting of defeat. Rynearson whiffed seven as against four for Marshall. Neither team scored until the third, when in the visitors' half Lane drove one down third base line for a clean home run, with two down. Warfield followed with a double and Wesley was purposely passed. The runners worked a good double steal, getting on second and third. Thomas fanned for the third out.

In the locals' half Crane singled and scored on a wild throw. Rynearson and Hole struck out and Hellenberg flied to Smith.

In the fourth Rynearson fanned Smith. Higgins flied to Hellenberg and Jones to Carlson. Bell was first for the Rays and singled, stealing second. Gillen grounded to Marshall, who fumbled. Bell taking third and Gillen first. Carlson sent a long sacrifice fly to Smith. Bell scoring. Partells hit into a double play.

Neither side scored again until the fireworks started in the seventh. Rigness was safe on Bartell's fumble and was sent to third on a single by Jones. Hole threw out. Pettway. Hammerschmidt hoisted the ball over Hole's head attempting to catch Jones at second, and both runners scored. The Ray's half was quick and quiet, no one reaching first.

In the eighth Smith flied to Crane. Rigness flied to Bell. Jones flipped one to short and Hole threw it out of the field trying to the ball over Hole's head attempting while the players sought the ball and Jones romped around with the fourth and last run. The Ray popped in their half and were retired in order.

The ninth was unproductive, both teams playing tight ball.

Time of game—1:35. Umpire—McCullough.

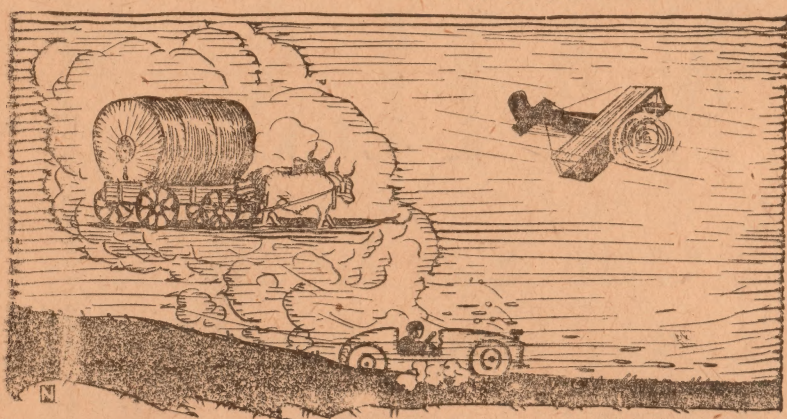

The Ray Battery will play the Paige Dairy nine here Saturday and Sunday. The team is from Toledo and is said to be the fastest class A in Ohio.

OASIS IN ARIZONA DESERT

What Has Been Done to Make Ajo, for Centuries an Arid Spot, "Blossom Like the Rose."

West of the Santa Cruz and south of the Gila in Arizona the territory is generally an irreclaimable desert. Its mountains, however, abound in rich ore of gold, silver and copper. At the celebrated mine, the New Cornelia Copper Company has created in the midst of this arid district a garden spot with attractive and artistic houses of mission architecture, and broad avenues lined with palms. This has been accomplished by providing a million gallons of water a day, which is pumped from a 700-foot well eight miles from town. The history of mining in the district is full of the romance of the West, the copper deposit there having been first worked by the Spaniards and Mexicans 200 years before the Gadsden purchase. According to A. W. Allen, writing in Engineering and Mining Journal-Press, it was only after long experimentation that a process adaptable to the treatment of complex ores was evolved. The operating company provides a school and hospital for benefit of its employees and also runs a profit-sharing store. The camp is connected with the railroads of the country by a branch of the El Paso and Southwestern railroad. The mining claims and the mill sites cover an area of 2,854 acres. The property affords a striking and unusual example of what American industrial management can accomplish under adverse climatic and geographical conditions.

QUESTION FOR LAW SHARKS

Nice Point Concerning Ownership of Pearl Which Cook Discovered in Clam She Was Eating.

A nice question of ethics, and of law is raised by the case of the cook at Atlantic City who choked on a pearl found in a clam she was eating and whose mistress then claimed the precious obstruction for her own.

In the diamond mines of the Rand at Kimberley the native workman who swallows a diamond does not, ipso facto, make it his own. He digs in the blue clay on the understanding that every jewel discovered belongs to the De Beers Mining company, Ltd. But the cook was in a different situation. She was given her food as a part of her compensation. The pearl is an excrement part of the clam; it is the picturesque result of a diseased condition.

If possession is nine-tenths of the law, then the cook is entitled to the pearl on the principle of "findings is keepings." In any case, the lady of the house would be entitled to boast, as many a mistress has asserted, "I have a pearl in my cook!"—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

WUERTH THEATRE WILL SHOW NEW VAUDEVILLE

Henry H. Lueders and Will M. Elliott, of the United Booking association of Detroit and New York, made a hurried visit last week upon Mr. Morhorst, of the Wuerth theatre, in regards to the circuit of Henry H. Lueders' Vaudeville Road Show Reviews.

This is really a new idea in the show business, the first one in the past 15 years, as it gives the theatre management an absolute guarantee as to the grade of shows he is to get for a given number of weeks. This depends upon the number of weeks his franchise is for. He will receive a vaudeville road show each week of quality that will consist of the highest grade of talent available in the vaudeville field.

These reviews will travel entire as a road show from town to town over the entire circuit, carrying their own special scenery and musical director. Each week the shows will consist of entirely new faces and a different style of a show, never acts conflicting with one another.

The Vaudeville Road Show Reviews will work along entirely different lines from the old stereotyped idea where an act comes on and does their bit, the curtain comes down for another act, during which time there are stage waits, etc.

The Vaudeville Road Shows Reviews will open with a big musical medley, with the entire company on the stage, and remaining there during the entire performance, with the exceptions where it is necessary for performers to leave the stage to make a change of wardrobe, and will again close their performance with another big singing ensemble.

These shows will run one hour and a half, and from all reports will keep their audience in a great spirit from the rise to the fall of the curtain.

Gastronomic Affinities.

The reason for ham and eggs, frankfurters and kraut, corned beef and cabbage and other kitchen couples is directly traceable to Yuan Mei, ancient Chinese philosopher, who wrote, centuries ago: "Cookery is like matrimony—two things served together should match."

YPSI ALL-STARS TAKE HECTIC GAME.

The Ypsilanti Independents, re-organized under the management of Otis Lee, and henceforth to be known as the Ypsilanti All-Stars, started their season by starring in a nine-reel super-comedy at Recreation park Sunday afternoon.

They met the Madison Realty club of Detroit and the resulting game afforded ideal recreation for the tired business man and others who attended. The game took two hours and 20 minutes to complete and the time was spent by the fans in giving the visitors the royal raspberry.

In the first inning Tamnia, the visiting pitcher, issued five passes which along with some stolen bases gave the locals four runs within their having tapped anything that even remotely resembled a hit. Wild pitches and wilder pitching featured the struggle and the locals were hard pressed to take advantage of all the opportunities offered them.

The second inning was similar, only worse, the locals careening around the bases six times and the following stanzas would be only repetitions of the first.

"Lefty" Roster pitched the first half and Dick Lyman the second for the All-Stars and held the visitors fairly well until the eighth and ninth, when, exhausted by the constant base running, seven Detroiters were allowed to filter home.

Judicial counting of the score after the game and when the dust had settled showed that the All-Stars had run several miles and had scored 15 runs, while the Realty club had accumulated nine.

Drake umpired.

Tip for the Modest Miss.

This is not a particularly modest age, but if there are any young ladies in Boston who hesitate to ask for a certain article outright, these young ladies might follow the example of the Altoona girl who said to the store clerk: "I want a set of elastic apparatus capable of being elongated and adjusted at pleasure, such as is worn by the feminine portion of mankind on their locomotive members, to keep in proper position and at the required altitude habiliments of the tibia."—Boston Transcript.

Papal Robes.

During the election of a new pope it is customary to prepare in advance three sets of white papal robes of different sizes, as no one can tell which of the candidates for papal honors will be chosen. On September 6, 1914, when Benedict XV entered the Sistine chapel arrayed in the papal robes of the smallest size, it was found that even these were far too large. The robes must be in readiness, as the pope on his election is immediately clad in his vestments and receives the homage of the assembled cardinals. It is not unusual for both the robes and the Fisherman's ring—the symbol of papal authority—to have to undergo alteration to fit the new pope.

Engaged or Willing to Be.

In olden times if a girl were willing to marry, and not engaged, it was the custom for her to wear a ring on the first finger of the left hand. If she wanted to remain single, then she wore the ring on the little finger.

Sent to Coventry.

The phrase "To send one to Coventry" means to take no notice of him. The story goes that the inhabitants of the city of Coventry, England, had, at one time, so great an aversion to soldiers that a woman seen speaking to one was at once tabooed. No intercourse whatever was allowed between the garrison and the town; hence when a soldier was sent to Coventry he was cut off from all social life outside barracks. Coventry, famous in the old days for watch-making, then silk weaving, then bicycle manufacturing, is now a center of the automobile industry.

Parents of Columbus.

Domencio Colombo, a wool comber and weaver, and his wife Susannah Fontanarossa. His father was probably a native of Quinto, near Genoa, and his mother a native of Fontanarossa. They were Roman Catholics. The place of their burial does not appear on record, but Columbus' mother died in 1494 and his father in 1498.

YPSILANTI, MICH., THURSDAY, JULY 20, 1922.

STATE ORGANIZATIONS
WORK FOR HEALTH BILL

"Fifty permanent mother and baby health centers in Michigan before July 1, 1923," was the slogan adopted at the first meeting of representatives of women's organizations which worked for the passage of the Sheppard-Towner bill. The meeting was called by Dr. Blanche M. Haines, director of the bureau of child hygiene and public health nursing, to present bureau plans to the women supporters.

Representatives of seven state organizations voiced approval of the proposal to establish mother and baby centers, and plans were launched to begin the work, made possible by the passage of the Sheppard-Towner bill. Directly after the meeting a health department representative left for Allegan county to organize a demonstration center, to be used as an example for other counties. It is planned to organize and operate the centers through local committees working in co-operation with state representatives.

The purpose of the center is to promote and maintain the health of child-bearing women and pre-school children. Its object is not to treat disease but primarily to instruct and advise expectant mothers to the end that they may preserve their own health and give birth to healthy children. "If these purposes are attained the infant mortality rate will decrease and Michigan will take its place among the leading states for low mortality rates," Dr. R. M. Olin, state health commissioner, said in a short address to the women in which he lauded their interest and active co-operation.

The organizations represented at the recent meeting were: State Federation of Women's Clubs, Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' association, League of Women Voters, Women's Christian Temperance Union, Women's Benefit Association of Maccabees, Ladies of Maccabees, and Michigan Agricultural extension department.

"FOUR SEASONS" IS NATURE SPECTACLE

"The Four Seasons," which comes to the Wuerth theatre Thursday and Friday, is the most magnificent spectacle of nature that has ever been produced. It was directed in its entirety by Raymond L. Dinners, curator of the New York Zoological society, and edited under the personal direction of Charles Urban, president of the Kineto Company of America, the producing company.

"The Four Seasons" is one of the oddest, as well as one of the most beautiful feature productions ever made. The entire cast is supplied by nature, also the settings.

The woods, the trees, the sky,
the marshes—these and many more supply the settings; the storms, the rainbows and all the other expressions of nature furnish what might be called the "effects" and as far as the actors are concerned, these are furnished by the animals. It is dis-tingly a picture of nature; human beings have little parts in it except to supply the direction.

Each season of the year has one reel devoted to it in "The Four Seasons." Spring, summer, winter and autumn make up the nature subdivisions. They tell the complete story of nature; they take a full year in motion pictures, describe what happens in the woods and marshes and fields in every season of the year.

"The Four Seasons" gain most of its fascination from the extraordinarily interesting story unfolded season by season, but entirely aside from the story it is remarkably beautiful.

The work has been done with great attention to detail; simplicity has been the keynote throughout, creating an effect so powerful that it will reach even the most unimaginative.

Hats and Husbands.
People are making investigations as to which classes of men make the best husbands. I suppose it all depends on what you call a "good" husband—whether you want one free from vice, and quiet about the house; or the other sort. Personally, I've got a decided longing toward a millionaire, but it's like choosing a new hat—which ever one you have, you'll always wish you had the other.—London Opinion.

all creditors are notified that all

Instead it is a source of misery, causing pains, belching, dizziness and head-

The person with a bad stomach should be satisfied with nothing less than permanent, lasting relief.

The right remedy will act upon the linings of the stomach, enrich the blood, aid in casting out the catarrhal poisons and strengthen every bodily function.

The large number of people who have successfully used Dr. Hartman's famous medicine, recommended for all catarrhal conditions, offer the strongest

Michigan News Tersely Told

Plunging into the deep water of a small lake on the back of her father's farm near Kalkaska, Flossie Ryckman was drowned in an unsuccessful attempt to rescue her sister, Fannie Ryckman, 14 years old, who had become frightened when she found herself in deep water, while the two young women, and two younger children, cousins, were bathing in the lake. It was nearly an hour before the bodies were recovered. All efforts to revive the girls failed. The sisters were the only daughters of a family of six children of which two sons recently died.

Charles Horava, 26 years old, Detroit, was shot through the heart and killed by accident, by Patrolman Alfred Odgers, when he stepped from the curb into the street while the officer was firing at an automobile. A woman's scream from the car caused the patrolman to step into the street and try to halt the automobile. When the driver disregarded his summons, Odgers opened fire. Horava, according to the statement made by three witnesses, stepped into the street, evidently to see what was happening, and was hit by a bullet.

Anna Doseuse, Slavic, arrived in Kalamazoo from Austria-Hungary, after having journeyed 5,000 miles to marry a man she had never seen. According to the bargain, Frank must pay the woman's return fare to Hungary in the event she decides not to marry him.

And the Editor of That One Had to Teach His Subscribers How to Read It.

Journalism in Greenland is in rather a primitive stage, according to the captain of a British bark. The captain makes frequent voyages to Greenland and is held to be an authority on conditions in that country.

The one editor in Greenland is a Dane named Moeller, who conducts the only newspaper and enjoys the singular distinction of printing the paper for the natives and teaching them to read it.

Mr. Moeller is not only the editor and proprietor; he is the reporter, printer, distributor and business manager, and every two weeks he makes a long journey on skates to dispose of his journal.

Originally it contained only a few crude illustrations, but gradually other matter was introduced, until now it contains articles on the affairs of the day.

This man actually taught his subscribers to read his paper, first introducing words, then sentences, until now his subscribers are able to read articles on any topic he cares to write about.

Ypsilanti, Mich., July 14, 1922.
To the Honorable Mayor and Common Council of the City of Ypsilanti:

In regard to your request for an opinion as to whether the Common Council of the City of Ypsilanti acted within the limits of its authority in deeding a portion of Water Works Park to the Air Alarm Company, and whether the Air Alarm Company acquired any valid title to the land so deeded, I wish to advise you that in my opinion the Common Council of the City of Ypsilanti did not have the authority to cause a conveyance of the property now occupied by the Air Alarm Company, because the law expressly provides that no city shall have power to sell any property which was used for park purposes or used in carrying on a public utility, or any part thereof unless approved by three-fifths of the electors voting thereon at any general or special election. If such a sale was so authorized by three-fifths of the electors, it could only be effected for a proper consideration, and by that I mean that the city must receive a reasonable value for the property so sold or conveyed. It is also my understanding that this property was conveyed by the city to the Air Alarm Company without consideration, and if this is true, it is my opinion that the conveyance to the Air Alarm Company was void because of the fact that city property cannot be donated for private use.

I am also reliably informed, although I have had no opportunity of examining the deed from the grantors to the City of Ypsilanti, that in the conveyance to the City of Ypsilanti it was expressly provided that the property now occupied by the Air Alarm Company should be used for park purposes only, and that in the event that any other use was ever made of the property that it should revert to the grantors and their heirs. If this is true, it is an additional reason that the conveyance to the Air Alarm Company is without effect.

Respectively,
JOHN P. KIRK,
City Attorney.

By Ald. Lathers—
That the City Clerk be instructed to transmit a copy of the report of the City Attorney to the receiver of the Air Alarm Company.

Further, that notice be given that the City of Ypsilanti intends to take possession of said property occupied by the Air Alarm Company.

TRACTOR

"Yes I've more Time for Myself Since I Got a Fordson"

The Fordson Tractor is taking much of the drudgery out of farm life; it is solving the labor problem; it is reducing the cost of preparing land by almost one half of what it was with horses; and it is saving one third to one half of the farmer's time; and making farm life more attractive.

The Fordson will run your threshing machine—and at the most opportune time for you. It will operate the milking machines, saw your wood, fill your silo, pump the water, and take care of every kind of belt work—

And don't forget—it will plow six to eight acres in a ten hour day, handling two plows with ease.

Thus the Fordson is the ideal year-round tractor. It will pay for its fall and winter keep in many ways.

There's a big story to tell you about the Fordson—and a true one—come in and get the facts. Or, if you prefer, telephone or drop us a card and we will bring them to you.
